Lookin' Around with Mac

When we started our weekly trips into the Sierras four months ago we assembled a set of maps. On one—the Tahoe national forest map—we trace a black pencil line on each route as we cover it. Each trip is a circle tour; we rarely retrace a road except to enter and leave Nevada City.

At first there were short trips and the map looked as though we had drawn a set of rough fingers centering in the home town. As the weather grew warmer the loops grew larger. Now the map looks like a great spider web; every radiating road has been touched.

Some of the cross-roads, especially above the 7,000 foot level near the heart of the Sierras, look particularly inviting. Our jeep has been tested on some but much of the most rugged country still beckons with an inviting challenge.

Most useful are the U. S. geological survey maps. We have a set of six quadrangles covering the area for 200 miles out of Nevada City in all directions. One disadvantage is that modern roads are not shown on the survey maps but they are invaluable for contours, elevations, old landmarks, and historic names. Most of the surveys were made 50 or 60 years ago and of course there is no need to change them in the more recent reprints.

Real estate men tell us this is the active season for sales, that they are unable to list sufficient properties of the kind sought. Especially in demand are well-built cabins on nice view sites, obviously the kind of place city folks want for summer vacations. Yet the land must be sufficient to provide for a garden, chickens, and pasture, which would indicate that buyers have in mind eventually retiring to "the little place in the hills."

One broker, knowing he had positive sales opportunities, asked several contractors to offer estimates on the type of construction he had in mind. But he says he is unable to interest builders.

With increasing interest in Nevada county as a recreation paradise and as an ideal place for retirement, it seems to me local construction capital is missing a good bet. Builders as a rule say there are too many headaches involved in the small cabin jobs to be worth considering. But if capital and labor costs involved are relatively small, there should be steady employment for the smaller contractors.

——M——

One couple I talked to had grown weary of city life and they spent an entire summer searching for the country place they wanted. They traveled from San Diego county to Vancouver, and finally found just the spot they wanted near Nevada City. Though their children are grown, these folks are still active and interested in many things and they find just the righ measure of town and country life here.

Their decision to locate here hinged on two things: exactly the right elevation for pine forests and the mountain vegetation they love and an abundance of good water. Many areas which fitted their pattern in other respects had either too much or too little water. The coastal valleys of southern California are on a strict water allotment and there is no hope of immediate relief. And the verdant river valleys of Oregon are fertile and pretty but there is too much rain for comfort. Nevada county offers the happy medium.

LINDSAY TERMS GRAND JURY INVESTIGATION A BUNCH OF MALARKEY

"A bunch of malarkey," was the description Assemblyman Francis B. Lindsay, Loomis, gave to an announced investigation by the Placer county grand jury that it was prepared to "investigate thoroughly the finances of Lindsay and the Placer soil conservation district."

Lindsay is chairman of the soil district's board of directors and author of a bill that would set up a million dollar revolving fund for heavy equipment used by farmers in soil conservation practices.

Lindsay said, "I have no comment other than that I have secured an opinion from the legislative counsel and was told my acts were perfectly legal.

"I am a bonded officer of the Placer soil conservation district and no funds can be spent except with the counter-signature of the secretary and approved by the county auditor."

HISTORICAL CARAVAN TOURS MINING AREA

A seven-car caravan containing 26 persons toured the historic hydraulic mining country of Nevada county Sunday in the fifth annual trip conducted by the Nevada County Historical Society.

Robert D. Paine, leader of the tour, was commentator on the trip and was assisted by Mrs. Isabel Hefelfinger, president of the society; Mrs. Doris Foley, past president, and George Legg.

The tour through the hydraulic diggings and the ghost towns of the county included Blue Tent, Edwards Crossing, Lake City, North Bloomfield, Graniteville, Orleans Flat, and Moore's Flat.

Points of interest along the route included the stage coach holdups on the Rock creek grade, stage stop at Mt. Vernon House, Edwards Crossing site of a toll bridge near where Barry Connors wrote "Apple Sauce" and "Dulcie," Kennebec House, the Malakoff, Hegarty's store in Moore's Flat, the Victor Buck ranch on Orleans Flat, and Graniteville.

PAST SEASON SECOND WETTEST IN 5 YEARS

Rainfall during the past year in Nevada City totaled 51.14 inches, according to Fred Bush, local weather recorder. It was the second wettest year in Nevada City since the season of 1944-45.

The rainfall during the past year was more than double the previous year when only 21.27 inches of rain fell.

The 1947-48 season was the wettest during the period when 54.24 inches were recorded. Other season totals included 1946-47, 34.69; 1945-46, 48.97; 1944-45, 52.59.

Heaviest precipitation in 101 years of recorded rainfall came during the 1867-68 season when 115.26 inches of moisture fell.

OFFICERS INSTALLED

The meeting was held in the lodge hall in Downieville and was attended by about 75 members.

Charles Veale assisted Martz as marshal and Mrs. Esther McCluskey performed the same service for Mrs. Kuhfeld.

CAMPFIRE STARTS FIRE IN SCOTT'S FLAT

Approximately two and a half acres burned Friday when an unextinguished campfire on top of an old sawdust pile spread in the area between the old Scott's Flat dam and the Almquist sawmill, before it was controlled by suppression crews of the state division of forestry.

Ranger Don Knowlton and Assistant Ranger Joseph Weselsky directed the suppression crews.

Knowlton asks campers and sportsmen to use extreme caution in use of fire and cigarettes in the forests and eliminate man-made fires.

COUNTY HOSPITAL WILL FEED PRISONERS

Starting Tuesday the Nevada county hospital will feed county jail prisons at an estimated cost of 45 cents a meal following an order Monday by the board of supervisors.

Last year the county spent $7,312.80 for feeding prisoners in the county jail. Supervisor Henry Loehr said the county will save about $500 the first two years despite a capital outlay of $1,800 for a pickup truck and utensils necessary to transport the meals.

The action was taken following a discussion by the board on the present system of supplying meals at a cost 89 cents each by local restaurants, which the supervisors considered out of line with the type of food that is being served.

DISMISSED

Superior Court Judge James Snell Friday dismissed a charge of contributing to delinquency of a minor filed against Clyde Fisk, on motion of District Attorney Vernon Stoll. A superior court jury earlier in the month failed to reach a verdict in the case. Fisk was charged with displaying lewd pictures to a Nevada City elementary school student.

FIVE INJURED WHEN CAR ROLLS 400 FEET DOWN CANYON BANK

Five employes of the Cal-Ida Lumber company escaped serious injury Friday night when their car left the highway near Depot Hill and rolled 400 feet into the canyon.

The car, according to the occupants, left highway 49 when it was crowded off the road by an oncoming car.

Graham, Nunley and King were thrown from the vehicle as it rolled down the embankment.

They crawled up the canyon wall to the highway and summoned help from passing motorists.

Nunley suffered an almost severed ear, Wright sustained a punctured lung and all received fractured ribs, cuts and bruises.

$350,000 DAMAGES ASKED IN COMPLAINT

Leslie D. and Hazel Hughes filed a complaint in Nevada county superior court asking $350,000 damages from the F. M. Rumbley company for injuries alleged to have resulted from an automobile-truck cash on highway 40 on April 7, this year.

According to the complaint, Mrs. Hughes sustained fractures and other injuries and "probably will be crippled for life." She requests $300,000 general damages plus medical and hospital expenses and loss of earnings.

Hughes charges both legs were injured and that he suffered severe injuries to his entire body. He asks $50,000 general damages and medical and hospital expenses and loss of earnings.

The plaintiffs are represented by Miller and Kroloff, Stockton attorneys.

ADMISSION OF CALIFORNIA AS A FREE STATE RESULTED FROM INCIDENT AT ROSE'S BAR IN NEVADA COUNTY DURING SUMMER OF 1849

The first step in the prohibition of slavery in California was taken at Rose's Bar, the first settlement of Nevada county, during the summer of 1849, according to Major E. A. Sherman, who arrived in Nevada county on June 17 of that year.

The slavery question arose when a General Green from Texas arrived with several Negro slaves and proceeded to stake out claims for each of his chattels, the ownership of the claims being retained by Green as the slave owner.

When the general's action became noised about the miners protested vigorously and advised Green trouble might develop. The general declared he would take up as many claims as he had slaves and work as many of them as he saw fit and if interfered with, would fight.

A meeting was called by the miners and was held on what was known as the "Governors' claim" because the three miners who operated it were ex-governors of three eastern states. Joseph E. Shannon, an exgovernor of Ohio, was the principal speaker. Randolph Peters of the Philadelphia company, presided and James Reynolds, Rose's partner, was secretary. A resolution was adopted "that no slave-owners should bring slaves into the mines and take claims in their names, nor should slaves be allowed to work for any man in the mines."

Sherman, having known Green during the Mexican war, was a member of the committee appointed to acquaint Gen. Green of the action of the miners. The committee advised the general to either send his slaves back to Texas or set them free. The general was angry and talked of resisting, but the following day he sold his claims and departed.

When instructions came from Gen. Bennett Riley, military governor of California, to hold an election for delegates to the constitutional convention in Monterey, the miners of the area elected Shannon as one of the delegates with instructions that the constitution should provide that slavery would be forever prohibited in the state of California.

The news of the action taken at Rose's Bar spread all over the mining camps and when the provision came before the convention it was adopted without debate. Sherman voted for the constitution in Sacramento on Nov. 13, 1849, before he was 21. Sherman explained that youths of 15 were permitted to vote at that election on the grounds that any youngster who had made his way to California was conceded to have attained manhood.

Sherman docked in San Francisco on May 24, 1849, and found the town celebrating Queen Victoria's birthday. He and several other men each paid $16 for the privilege of rowing an open boat to the embarcadero of Sutter's Fort (now Sacramento) the trip of 120 miles taking three and a half days.

Hundreds of men were prospecting the Yuba river when Sherman and his party arrived, but they staked out claims and went to work.

The miners celebrated their first Fourth of July in Nevada county by paying a visit to the first white woman they ever saw in the mines. She was an Oregon woman, in a Boomer costume made entirely from buckskin, and she had accompanied her husband in an ox-cart. She baked biscuits for the miners and received generous payment, many miners often giving her a sack of flour or specimens of nuggets for payment.

SUPERVISOR TOBIASSEN CHANGES STAND ON PERSONNEL SURVEY AS BOARD APPROVES PROGRAM 3 TO 1

The Nevada county board of supervisors Tuesday evening took one of its most progressive steps in many years by adopting the personnel and salary survey prepared by John England and his staff this past spring. The board excluded from the adopted survey that part which pertained to the county hospital, the road commissioner's office and the constable of Meadow Lake township.

The program is expected to cost an estimated $15,904 during the first complete year of its operation, and will go into full effect on Jan. 1.

The board had turned the survey down completely on July 5, by a 3-1 vote, with Supervisors Carl J. Tobiassen, Jerome Coughlan and Chairman Warren Odell casting the thumbs-down ballots. Supervisor Frank J. Rowe, who cast the only affirmative vote on July 5, and Supervisor Henry G. Loehr brought the issue back into discussion during Monday's session. The board wranged until 11:30 that evening, adjourned until Tuesday afternoon, spent three more hours in hopeless deadlock, and met again in the evening when the survey was finally accepted with a 3-1 vote. Tobiassen's reversal of opposition ended the heated discussion which saw one county official shake a fist at him. Coughlan automatically cast a nay vote. Loehr motioned to adopt the survey as it was finally accepted and Tobiassen seconded.

Monday Loehr had motioned to adopt a blanket increase of $10 per month for clerks and $5 per month for department heads, declaring he favored England's survey, and the blanket increase was only a stop-gap. The motion died for want of a second.

The stop-gap motion would have cost the county an estimated $11,000 annually as compared to England's complete survey recommendation of $17,305. The blanket increase as proposed by Loehr would have excluded the district attorney, superior court judge, auditor, and the supervisors.

Rowe called the blanket increase recommendation "just sucker bait," and was not a satisfactory solution to the problem.

"Let's turn them down cold," was Tobiassen's suggestion. Tobiassen said England's claim the survey would place Nevada county salaries on a comparable basis with neighboring counties and rid the county of wage inequalities, "hasn't done either."

Coughlan motioned that all increases including the welfare department be turned down, but his motion also died for lack of a second.

George Lowry, county welfare director, appeared before the supervisors and pointed out that half of the department's salaries is paid from state funds and unless the county conformed to the state schedule it would be possible the county would lose state aid. Lowry's recommended increases for his department would have totaled $948.

Loehr opened Tuesday's afternoon session with the suggestion the board consider the survey step by step and consider each case individually.

Tobiassen objected to the survey on the grounds that the accompanying expense would come at a bad time, with a sharp rise in taxes due through the increased load in the welfare department. He added a supervisor has to consider both sides of the question. The public officials and employees are on one shoulder and the taxpayers are on the other.

Rowe interjected the taxpayers know of the increase and are willing to share the burden.

Tobiassen asserted he was still dissatisfied with the survey.

Rowe claimed that if the assembled supervisors considered each individual case in the survey they would know what Tobiassen's dissatisfaction was.

Charles W. Veale, county hospital superintendent, who attended both sessions, declared he preferred the status quo to the salary survey as far as his department was concerned. Veale stated his staff had worked out a three-step program and preferred it to the survey or the status quo.

Loehr led the study of individual salary considerations with Tobiassen making a big share of the salary recommendations. As chairman, Rowe presided, and occasionally made a suggestion. Coughlan refused to participate in the study or discussion.

Upon completion of the study Tuesday afternoon the supervisors arrived at tentative recommended salary increases of $12,372 for the one year they were considering. This figure did not include the road department or Meadow Lake township constable. The board had received a ruling from District Attorney Vernon Stoll that a constable as an elective officer, could not draw additional compensation as an appointed officer. N. F. Dolley, Meadow Lake constable, also is serving as deputy sheriff without compensation and the survey recommended half-deputy pay or $1,392 annually.

With the same deletions the England survey totaled $13,336 increase in county salaries, or a difference of $964 from the figure arrived at by the supervisors.

Rowe urged the adoption of England's survey in place of the supervisors' hasty figures declaring that for $964 the county could get satisfied employees with an incentive to keep their positions and work for advancement.

Mrs. Jean Rowe Keeny, accountant in the county clerk's office, appeared before the board appealing on behalf of the courthouse employees for the adoption of the survey. "There is no incentive to work," Mrs. Keeny said. "The wage scale is something to work for and permits us to know where we stand." Mrs. Keeny said the county employees don't want a blanket raise and have to appear before the board every time a raise is in order. The survey would give a county employee a feeling of security and permancy, she added.

Mrs. Keeny cited the case of Mrs. Anna Tucker, who recently retired after serving as a county employee intermittently since 1918, and who at the time of retirement from her long service was drawing only $200, without social security and retirement benefits. During her long years of service to the county she had no incentive to remain at the job.

Rowe, who was displaying exasperation at the stalemate, had by this time clasped his head in his hands and looked at Coughlan despairingly. Coughlan told the chairman, "You can't bull Tobiassen into voting your way. You can't be bulled into voting against the way you think, and you shouldn't expect anyone else to do so."

The meeting adjourned at 5 p.m., and reconvened at 7 o'clock for the evening session that saw the survey adopted.

The board adopted Veale's plan for the county hospital and approved $25 monthly salary increases to the civil engineering assistant, engineering aid, and account clerk of the road department. These actions take effect immediately.

England's survey is a guide by which the county can equitably reward employees on the basis of the difficulty and responsibility of the work they are performing.

MRS. NAFFZIGER CALLED

Word has been received in Nevada City of the death of Mrs. Lizzie Naffziger in San Francisco. Her parents were in business in Nevada City during the latter part of the 19th century. She had made her home with her son, Dr. Howard Naffziger, eminent surgeon on the staff of the University of California hospital.

NO WIND IN OUR SAILS

Maybe that title is inappropriate. We feel more like a ship without a sail. All week we have been thinking up phrases and sentences for an editorial about the personnel and salary survey, and the inability of the Nevada county board of supervisors to see the merit of the study, and the board takes the wind out of our sails by adopting the survey (partially) Tuesday evening.

So instead of letting the board have both barrels with a caustic and critical pen—we congratulate them for their wisdom and amenable action. The employes of Nevada county have long deserved the increases in salaries and the incentives to work and the opportunity of a future that the survey provides.

We fully believe the salary survey will mean a saving to Nevada county through increased efficiency and an improved quality of personnel.—kww.

CHALLENGE, 1950—AND FOREVER

Americans, facing a third world war, are a perplexed people. We want nothing but peace on earth for ourselves and all mankind, but we can't have it, nor can we give it to others.

And much of the underlying trouble of the world is of our making.

Certainly you are right in saying "World Communism is to blame for stirring unrest and kindling fires," but we are at fault for having done nothing about the piles of tinder we've seen smoking into spontaneous combustion for a decade or two. Witness Asia.

Asia is a restless frontier. The Asiatic peoples are awakening from peasantry and from domination by fading imperialistic systems imposed upon them from Europe. The Asiatic mind is in the groping stage our forefathers went through when they threw off the yoke of Britain in 1776. They want freedom and self-determination. They want the rights we claim here under a constitution and a declaration of independence and a bill of rights.

These things, basically, we want for them. But we've not shown response to their liberal growth. We've supported Dutch and French rule over native desires. We backed Chiang long after his people saw in him dictatorial fascist designs. We've appeared in the role of a shrewd investor, building up, certainly, but always taking away a healthy profit. We have not appeared enough in the role of bearer of democratic truth to elevate those who are oppressed as we were oppressed.

It is correct for us to tell the world we supported the anti-Communist groups in these awakening lands. That we did. But we also drove true liberals into the arms of Communists, allied ourselves with reactionary rule such as we ourselves shook off in 1776, and lost what chance we had to sell our true democratic philosophies to millions of people now emerging, for better or for worse, into stronger positions in the world of change and flux.

All we can do at present, evidently, is to continue to fight Russian Communism wherever it flares up as the backdrop for war in isolated countries with strange sounding names. But we had better bring with our planes and tanks and ships a resolve to continue to fight Communism with Democracy after the shooting is over. Those strange sounding names had best become part of the dictionary of democracy, once regained from the open lie of communism.

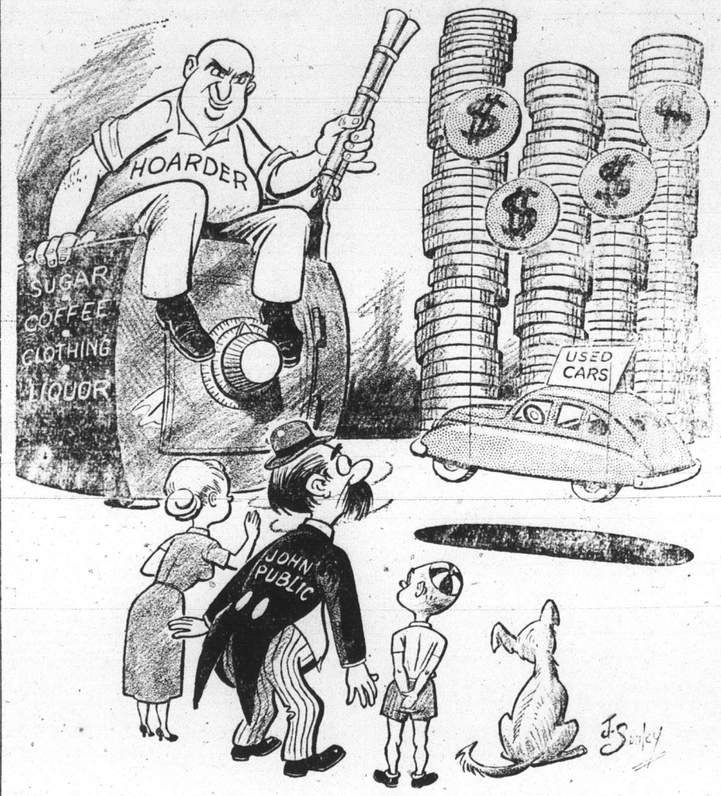

General Douglas MacArthur had made great strides in conquered Japan, bringing to a downtrodden but intelligent race of people their first opportunity for self rule. His has been an unprecedented and magnificent role. And it establishes a pattern for rescuing our place as saviour of freedom loving people.

That pattern must be enlarged, if we are successful in the war of arms, and become a ring of true democratic enlightment against an octopus of communist enslavement. Asiatic peoples must see us as we are in our own land, free people, loving freedom and self determination for ourselves and all others. They must be shown that we wish them to grow in free soil. Our only right of temporary imperialism is one in the MacArthur pattern, imposing our force only to protect their freedoms until they are able to protect themselves.

If that means turning our backs upon the decadent imperialisms imposed by 19th century Europe, and turning our swords against 20th century Communism, that's our job. We must regain the place of honor we earned as the rebellious colony which threw off oppression. We cannot be placed by Russian propaganda and our own blundering support of state quo governments in the hated role of a fascist conqueror, which is the role in which many millions of Asiatics now see us.

And if it means turning back to native countries the bulk of control over foreign investments, so that they progress through our technological skills as well as through our military and diplomatic protection, that is worthy of study too.

It is easy for us to say our capital has built many backward nations into positions of world strength. It has. We have also put up such colossal fortunes in investment that their domestic businessmen are shoved out of the picture. How California would squawk if Spain's tycoons still retained rights to our oil fields or to our hydro-electric plants, or our farm lands.

We're coming into a tough situation. Either we get Asia—and Africa and much of Europe and South America—thinking of us as the American nation of freedom loving people, or we allow Russia to convert millions on the argument they must withstand being gobbled up by greedy and oppressive Wall Street America.

We've won two wars. We've freed millions from the Kaiser's form of oppression, from Hitler's prison camp naziism, from Mussolini's murderous fascism—yet we stand, in the eyes of millions of freedom seeking men, as the grasping Rightist State of the world family.

The Russian line of communistic palaver isn't hard for us to reject, because we see it in the light of the democracy we live. It is another kind of attraction when repeated to struggling Asiatics reaching out towards any light.

The light they seek is the democracy we can give them. But we must take it to them through fire and through a bewildering jungle of untruth and half truth, some of it built around our own mistakes.

There's a big job coming up, America.

Stolen from the Placerville Democrat. Besides, it's too dog dayish to write editorials this week.

The spirit of kindness of the folks about you, the pleasant nod, a word of encouragement, a smile, the interest of your neighbor in your behalf, are the foundation stones of town loyalty. It's those little things that make a town and the remembrances and nostalgia of those who have moved to other places to live.

This is one of those weeks. We haven't a thing to write about—since the supervisors adopted the personnel survey. We have nothing in particular to object to; no one to raise hell with—in short—a blank for a so-called editorial writer. An editorial writer is supposed to get out of bed on the wrong side, eat a sour pickle for breakfast and get in a fire and brimstone mood for the day, that is according to popular conception of an editor.

Doing business without advertising is like winking at a girl in the dark—you know what you are doing, but does any one else?

Wouldn't life be soft if we had the other fellow's job?

FORMER RESIDENT HAS ARTICLE PUBLISHED

An article entitled "Sargon's Library of Astronomy," written by Mrs. Mary Elsnau Isbell, is appearing in the August issue of Horoscope magazine, now on the news stands.

Mrs. Isbell formerly lived in Indian Flat, near Nevada City, and is now a resident of Marysville.

The article deals with the theory that advanced scientific information and knowledge of the ancients was brought with them to Peru and Yucatan of the western hemisphere, and before that, from Mu in the Pacific.

MRS. LIPMAN WINS AGAIN AT WRITING

Mrs. Clayre Lipman, Nevada City, received $250 cash award for an article "A Million Dollars Looking for You," she entered in a contest sponsored by the Midwestern Writers association.

Mrs. Lipman, who entered the non-fiction division of the contest, described in her article the various sources from which persons unknowingly have money coming and do not realize it.

According to the article, one of seven persons in the U. S. has money coming from estates, accrued savings, bonuses and other sources, without knowing it.

LEGAL NOTICE

NOTICE OF CONTRIBUTION

STATE OF CALIFORNIA,
COUNTY OF NEVADA,
June 28th, 1950.

TO: MARGARET F. JOHNSON:

YOU ARE HEREBY NOTIFIED that I have expended the sum of $4,500.00 in labor and improvement upon the OCTO PLACER MINING CLAIM as will appear by Certificate filed on the 31st day of May, 1949, in the office of the Recorder of the County of Nevada, State of California, in order to hold these premises under the provisions of Sec. 2324 Revised Statutes of the United States, being the amount required to hold the same for the year ending on the 30th day of June, 1949, and if, within ninety (90) days from the service of this Notice, or within ninety (90) days after this Notice by publication, you fail or refuse to contribute your proportion of such expenditure as co-owner, your interest in said claim will become the property of the subscriber under Sec. 2324.

CALL FOR BIDS

The Board of Trustees of the Nevada City Unified School District hereby call for bids and proposals to furnish a school bus designed and built to carry approximately fifty high school students.

All bids and proposals submitted shall contain specifications covering braking mechanisms and motor performance exemplified by net horse power and torque shown by a nationally recognized table, sufficient to cover daily trips between North San Juan, Nevada County, California, and Nevada City, California, with return trips each day.

Any bid or proposal submitted in response to this call for bids shall be on a type of vehicle that will pass inspection under any and all laws of the State of California covering school buses.

Bids or proposals will be considered at the regular meeting of the Board of Trustees of the Nevada City Unified School District on August 14, 1950, at 8 P. M. at the elementary school in Nevada City, and such bids or proposals shall be made in writing and filed with J. Paul Bergemann, Clerk of said Board on or before 5 P.M., August 14, 1950.

U. C MAN WRITES ON TIMBER HARVESTING

A new book, "Principles and Methods of Timber Harvesting," by M. E. Krueger, professor of forestry on the Berkeley campus of the University of California, is now in its first stages. It will emphasize the relationship of methods of timber harvesting to the practice of forestry.

To gather his data, Krueger has just visited northern California, the Ponderosa pine region of the Sierras, eastern Washington and Oregon, the white pine region of northern Idaho, and the Douglas fir area of western Washington and Oregon.

The volume will include a discussion of logging methods and the place of machinery in these methods. Its second main emphasis will be on ways in which timber harvesting methods and machinery in use must be modified to fit into forestry management for continuous production.

Krueger discovered on his recent trip through the Douglas fir regions that lumbermen are already thinking in terms of adapting logging methods and machinery for conversion of second growth stands.

Specifically, lumbermen in the Douglas fir areas, looking forward to such second growth stands, are seeking lighter equipment for hauling logs. One development is the portable chipper, which cuts up poor logs and thinnings for pulpwood at the site. Closely connected with it is the portable barker for stripping logs.

120 ACRES OF BRUSH BURNED TUESDAY

Approximately 120 acres of brush and light timber in the Rattlesnake creek area southeast of LeBarr Meadows burned Tuesday afternoon, before the two separate fires in the area were controlled by eight state division of forestry suppression crews.

All crews in this area and a crew of prisoners and crews from Placer, Yuba and El Dorado counties responded to a fire in Woodpecker ravine southwest of Grass Valley to control a fire that burned over 100 acres. Four bulldozers were utilized during the Woodpecker fire.

More than 7,000 varieties of apples have been recorded in the United States.

HIGHWAYMEN RETURN TO YUBA VALLEY AND $12,000 HI-JACKED

Gold is where you find it and where you find it you can often find the highwayman. Thus it was in the early days of the gold rush and thus it is today.

Armed with an automatic shotgun and revolver, two masked highwaymen held up eight employes of the Yuba Consolidated Gold Fields Monday afternoon at 2:30 p.m. about a half mile from Hammonton and escaped with a truck containing 58 pounds of amalgam valued at about $12,000.

According to Warren Setzer, 26, driver of the truck, the two bandits stepped from behind bushes, ordered the men to unload and walk up the road.

The truck was found abandoned near Hammonton.

One of the bandits was described as 35 years old, wearing dark brown clothing and carrying the shotgun. The other was wearing an olive drab army uniform with an Eisenhower jacket and carried the revolver.

SUPERVISORS REJECT COUNTY-WIDE GROUP PROMOTION FUND PLEA

A request by representatives of the chambers of commerce of Nevada City, Grass Valley and Truckee for $8,400 to be used for county promotion was denied by unanimous vote of the board of supervisors Monday.

Supervisor Jerome C. Coughlan sounded the keynote for the supervisors when he moved that the "request be denied until they can prove they have an organization that is able to stand on its own feet."

According to the proposal submitted to the board the $8,400 would be added to the $2,500 already allocated by the supervisors for promotion and would be spent by a county board of trade to encourage industrial and recreational development in Nevada county.

Henry Loehr, Truckee supervisor, remarked that the board did not feel justified in allocating any funds to organize a promotional body which has given no indication of a definite program.

In other actions taken by the board this week no action was taken on a request for $2,000 to help finance a three-day centennial celebration in Grass Valley on Oct. 27, 28 and 29.

Loehr moved the board take no action on a recommendation by the grand jury that the Veterans Memorial building in Grass Valley be placed under supervision of a manager. He also motioned the board adopt the bookkeeping system recommended by the grand jury. Both motions were approved unanimously.

The board allocated $200 annually to both Nevada City and Donner Summit to provide quarters for veterans' organizations of the two areas.

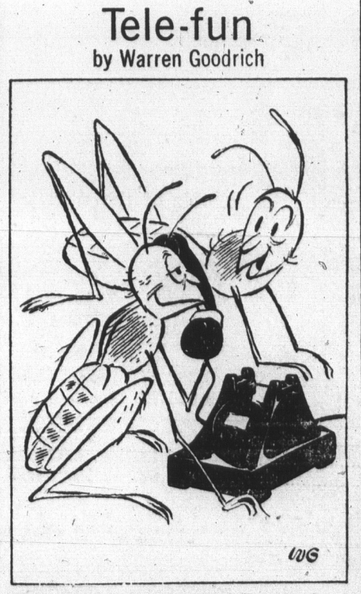

The board budgeted $59,665 to the Nevada City veterans building.

Next meeting of the board of supervisors is scheduled for Tuesday.

Son-in-Law From Texas Visits With Huttons

Friends of Mr. and Mrs. Don Hutton of Grass Valley were happy to meet their son-in-law, Paul Spackman, who just arrived here from Houston, Texas. His wife, Violet, a former Grass Valley high school student and their son and daughter, have been spending the summer at the Hutton home on Lucas Lane.

A pot-luck dinner party was held Sunday in the gardens of the home of Mrs. Beatrice Butcher. Col. and Mrs. L. D. Crain and family, Dr. and Mrs. Dwight Lang Jr. and family, Miss Sally Matteson, Mrs. Lang's sister from Nebraska, who is assisting Dr. Lang in his office for the summer. Mr. and Mrs.. Hutton and Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Stevens were the invited guests, with the Sparkman family the guests of honor.

Croquet was enjoyed by many of the guests until darkness fell.

A. T. Parsons Entertain At Porch Supper Party

Mr. and Mrs. A. T. Parsons of Banner road gave a supper party last Sunday, serving the delicious meal on her lovely porch. Mr. and Mrs. John Longmaier of Alta Hill, Mr. and Mrs. Frank A. Stanley and Mr. and Mrs. W. O. Muther of Auburn and their son, Philip Parsons, who is carrying on his father's business in San Mateo, were among those who enjoyed the interesting evening.

Mrs. Mae Raddue, who has been vacationing with her son and family in Santa Barbara the past two weeks returned to Nevada City on Monday and therefore was unable to be present.

Parsons left for San Mateo on Monday with his son, to attend to business affairs in the bay area.

CAPITAL SOROPTIMISTS

Mrs. Zue Gerry Pease and Mrs. Clara Zimmerman, members of Sacramento Soroptimists club, were guests of the Nevada City Soroptimists when they met at the National hotel Wednesday of last week for a regular weekly luncheon.

The Nevada City Lions club held its regular business meeting at the weekly dinner at Deer Creek Inn Wednesday night. The Lionettes held a dinner and business meeting the same night at the Gold Nugget Inn.

Mrs. Don Knowlton Is Honored at Shower

Mrs. Don Knowlton of the Ridge road was greatly surprised last week when she rang the bell at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Jacobson and discovered a watering can hanging from the front door. As she entered the house, she realized that a shower was being given for her by the artful stork decorations hanging everywhere.

Guests present included Mrs. Robert Evans, Mrs. Audrey Kerrin, Mrs. Virginia Russell, Mrs. Virginia Clapp, Mrs. Louise Rankin, Mrs. Lou Shannonhouse, the mother of Mrs. Knowlton, Mrs. Juanita Anderson, Mrs. Dorothy Jones, Mrs. Bernice Hilpert, Mrs. Frances Zurflueh, Mrs. Victoria Smart, Mrs. Ollie Stewart and Mrs. Bertie Smith.

An umbrella covered with pink crepe paper held the beautiful baby gifts.

Strawberry sundaes, cookies and iced beverages were served.

A table covered with paper plates, straws and doilies were set before the guests to use to make paper hats. Mrs. Dorothy Jones won a prize for the funniest hat. Mrs. Anderson showed her originality by making the prettiest hat and winning a whipmaster. Mrs. Jones' gift was a cake server.

All the women present were members of Nevada City Lionettes with the exception of Mrs. Evans and Mrs. Shannonhouse.

OBSERVES BIRTHDAY

Martin C. Young, Fresno, nephew of Mr. and Mrs. Charles C. Gaus of North Bloomfield, was guest of honor at a surprise dinner in honor of his birthday at the National hotel. A birthday cake was baked by Mrs. Ernest Young and was served to the guests and staff of the hotel. Carole Young and Georganne Helzer sang "Happy Birthday." Among those attending were Mr. and Mrs. Martin Young, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Young and children, Carole and Ernest Jr., Nance Rayner, Mr. and Mrs. T. A. Moyle, Georganne Helzer and Mr. and Mrs. Gaus.

STATE DEPARTMENT OF PUBLIC HEALTH TAKES DIM VIEW TOWARD FISHING AT SCOTT'S FLAT

The California department of public health urged limitation of fishing on Scott's Flat reservoir to the upper reaches of the lake, chlorination of the water, provision of sanitary facilities, and control of drainage into the lake and adjacent water canals that supply domestic water to Nevada City and Grass Valley, according to a letter from E. A. Reinke, chief of the bureau of sanitary engineering, to Dr. Vernon W. Padgett, county health officer.

Reinke, in the letter, also disapproved the proposed site of the Grass Valley Sportsmen's club at the reservoir. The state office, at its last inspection of the reservoir, found no sanitary or sewage disposal facilities.

The state official said the health department has discouraged hunting and fishing on domestic water supply reservoirs. Where fishing and hunting have been sanctioned, the water department that requested such use made of its reservoir has assumed responsibility for safeguards to offset attendant pollution, such as treatment of water, construction of sanitary conveniences for sportsmen, and adequate sanitary supervision.

Forrest Varney, manager of the Nevada Irrigation District, which owns Scott's Flat reservoir and supplies domestic water to Nevada City and Grass Valley through the Snow Mountain and Cascade ditches, said that all domestic water does not pass through Scott's Flat reservoir. Most of the domestic water supplied the two communities is diverted from Deer creek above the reservoir. Varney added that the Deer Creek South (D-S) canal is supplied water from the reservoir and some domestic water is furnished Grass Valley from the canal, but only when the Cascade ditch is not sufficient.

Varney declared, "It would be very unfortunate if the reservoir was closed to all recreation. The district has developed a picnic area immediately above the dam on the onrth shore. Water is piped from the Snow Mountain ditch to a fountain in the campground and a large stove has been set in rock for the accommodation of individuals or groups who wish to hold dinner meetings there. Large picnic tables have also been built and left on the ground. This spot is being used constantly. The district has provided pit toilets. Garbage barrels are also provided and emptied each week."

Varney conceded the district has probably been negligent in not providing toilet facilities around the lake shore for the convenience of fishermen and boaters, but said the district can hardly afford to build elaborate toilets, but would build adequately.

"It hardly would seem necessary to provide a filtration plant," Varney declared, "because of the use of Scott's Flat reservoir for recreational purposes. Any water released from the reservoir is perfectly clear and any sediment which would require filtration would be picked up in the canals and ditches below the reservoir the same as has prevailed during the 23 years of the district's existence."

The Nevada County Sportsmen's association, which has recently launched a campaign to clear up pollution in fishing streams of the area, is expected soon to hold a general meeting of sportsmen, NID officials, Senator Harold T. Johnson of Roseville, and other state officials, to discuss the pollution problems.

LISTLESS LOCALS FORTUNATELY PLAYED COLFAX

A large delegation of Nevada City and Grass Valley fans accompanied the Athletics to Colfax Sunday and watched their pride and joy whip the Fireballs 12-9 in a listless game that was sparked only by Jake Goldsberry's brace of homers and Ed Wojack's clutch hitting.

The Fireballs clung to an early lead for five innings until Wojack delivered a two-run single with two out that put the Athletics in front to stay.

The Athletics travel to Placerville tomorrow evening. Steve Pelayo has assigned the starting pitching chore to Carl Fischer. The boisterous one is worried about tomorrow's game and has tried to solve the problem of injecting a little life into the Athletics and get over the idea to his over-confident players that the Bartletts will not be the pushovers of the team's last two contests. The team will leave from Nevada City at 5 p.m.

RANGERS COMPLETE TRAINING COURSE

District rangers of Tahoe national forest Friday completed a four-day range management training course conducted in the Sierraville and Truckee districts.

The course was given under the direction of Walter W. Wetzell, assistant chief of the division of range management of regional forest headquarters at San Francisco and Waldo Wood, range specialist also of San Francisco.

Particular emphasis was placed on the range land on the eastern slopes of the Sierra Nevadas, according to Guerdon Ellis, supervisor.

Ellis explained the rangers received instruction on how to determine the number of stock a given range will graze per season and on methods of determining when a range is overgrazed.

BARE FACTS ON BEAR AT FIVE MILE HOUSE

Mike Faynik, proprietor of the Five Mile House, east of Nevada City on highway 20, welcomes his guests with open arms, but last Friday morning he did his doggonnest to drive a would-be guest away.

The bear, apparently looking for a breakfast of hot cakes and maple syrup, or something, nonchalantly browsed among the garbage cans despite invitations by Faynik to scram.

Faynik finally called the sheriff's office, the deputy on duty latereled the ball to Game Warden John Wentzel, but when he arrived at the scene, Mr. Bruin had disappeared into the woods.

From where I sit ... by Joe Marsh

Take Your Choice

Sitting around last Friday evening, the talk turned to the best way of getting to sleep when it seems you just can't. "The way I always do," says Sandy Johnson, "is to breathe deep and make believe I weigh a ton."

"Just throw away the pillow—it works every time," says Buzz Ellis. When counting sheep came up, right away was the question: What kind of sheep?

From where I sit, you could argue 'til Doomsday and never get complete agreement on a lot of things. Now, take me. I'm all for having a glass of beer or ale on occasion. Your "sociable beverage" may be a "Coke"—or buttermilk or maybe a cup of hot coffee.

But enjoying our preferences is a right in this country and each of us is entitled to his own. The important thing is to respect that right in the true democratic spirit of understanding! As a matter of fact, what a tiresome old world this would be if we all did have the same likes and dislikes!
